PATIENCE

For those days in the stand when you see nothing for hours on end. Season after season, you catch glimpses of him, but your freezer and wall space lie empty. Time waits for no man, but you'll wait until the end of time.

PERSISTENCE

So long as he walks and breathes, you also walk and breathe. A thousand attempts is no different from one. It's mind over matter, laughter in the face of adversity. The last time you quit was the last time you succeeded.

PERSEVERANCE

The breeze has turned into a gale, the drizzle now a steady rain. Frigid air bites your bones, your numb fingers losing dexterity. You missed the shot, but he pauses within range one last time...
